Breast Cancer Awareness Celebration – hear this story of courage, determination and endless love of four women fighting for their lives.

You will forever remember this special event as we feature the story of a family struck by breast cancer – not just once but three times!

Having lost both their grandmother and aunt to this predestined genetically inherited disease and with a mother who has needed a mastectomy, three daughters go on a search to find the answers of whether 'they too will be struck down'!

As featured recently on Today Tonight, hear this world-breaking story of three Queensland women trying to decide their future. Three sisters, Christine, Veronica and Elisha live with a staggering 80% chance of contracting cancer before they turn 50.

Christine, 41, made her choice to have both her healthy breasts removed in September to reduce her chances of being diagnosed with this disease. She is just now out of hospital and will share her story of courage, determination and hope for the first time in Australia to a live audience. Their family story is being filmed over a two year period and being made into a provocative world documentary "Pieces of Me".

This is a story that needs to be shared with all womankind – you'll laugh, you'll cry and you will be left changed forever.
