THURSDAY-SEPTEMBER 1ST 2005

'If you want to be humbled, uplifted and inspired, go and listen to Perry.' Laurie Lawrence

Ten years ago Gold Coast teenager Perry Cross broke his neck in a football accident, and was left a quadriplegic on life support, unable to move from the neck down, unable to talk and unable to eat. Most people in this situation never leave the hospital, however Perry, with the support of his family made a major decision: 'Let's get moving.'

Over the next 12 months Perry continued to confound the experts. 'My story is about triumph over tragedy. Purposeful decisions I have made to push myself harder, higher and better no matter what life has thrown my way. It is a story that I hope will inspire and encourage people to do the same.'

Over the last ten years Perry has never stopped pushing the limits: just two years after his accident Perry became Australia's first motivational speaker on life support, and was runner up in the prestigious International Communicator of the Year awards. In 1997 Perry was named Suncorp Young Queensland of the year and in 1999 was a finalist in the Young Australian of the year.

The year 2000 saw Perry complete a Communications and Business degree at Bond University - another groundbreaking 'first'. Perry has also travelled to the United States as an advisor to the United Nations General Assembly on behalf of Young Australians.

While in New York, he met his look-alike, "Superman" Christopher Reeve to discuss research and raise awareness and funds toward a cure for paralysis.

They became close friends. In June 2002, Reeve asked him to act as his envoy and ambassador in advocating for stem cell research in Australia.

In September Perry joins us for this inspirational morning as he launches for the first time in Queensland - the latest chapter in his amazing life.
